

Anthroposophical Society in Canada

Annual General Meeting and Conference

18th - 20th May 2018

The Work of Anthroposophy: Creating Moral Substance

"That the moral world-order in the present is the germinal force of a future order of nature is the most real idea that there can possibly be. Morality is not merely something that has been thought out: and if it is imbued with reality it lives now as a seed for later outward realities."

Rudolf Steiner

The Work of Anthroposophy: Creating Moral Substance

About the Conference Theme

At our last AGM conference in Toronto three years ago, interest was awakened between Sacramental and Spiritual Communion. At the core of these two paths lives the work of building moral substance. What is moral substance? We invite you to delve into this theme most directly through personal experience and research.

We would like to explore deeper the two paths, both Sacramental and Spiritual Communion in this first Christ-Michael time of ours! We will link this exploration to the second panel of the Foundation Stone Meditation as this work seems directly linked to our living with the Etheric Christ on a constant (daily) basis.

The event is open to both members and friends of the Anthroposophical Society. It will take place in English and will be held at the Toronto Waldorf School with meals at Hesperus Village (9100 Bathurst St., Thornhill, Ontario.) Please note, meals must be booked in advance no later than May 11. Please use enclosed registration form.

There are limited funds available for assistance in travelling to the Conference and AGM

Please contact the administrator if you would like to apply. Tel: (416) 892-3656
