That Good May Become

a festival of initiative

August 10-16, 2023

A Welcome

One hundred years ago, the Anthroposophical Society was founded during the Christmas Conference of 1923/24. Its intention has been to cultivate the life of Soul, enabling the transformation of culture based on spiritual research and insight. In February of 1924 the School of Spiritual Science was established to develop this research and its Sections were inaugurated to bring these impulses into humanity's institutions.

This Festival celebrates what has been realized of these intentions and it looks toward our future. We warmly welcome all who have carried these intentions, and those who can recognize the importance of these intentions for our time. Profound changes have been made, among them the development of biodynamic agriculture, the creation of an education that fosters full individual potential, and the renewal of architecture and the arts, as well as many other areas of life.

Initiative is the fire through which transformation and renewal comes into the world. This Festival provides both a place and a situation where those seeking for a renewal of our human culture can come to share their inspirations and find their future colleagues.

The Place

At the centre of our North American continent is a place that has been sacred for those who have dwelt here for millennia. In the midst of the widths of the open prairies and great expanse of sky, is the confluence of rivers that flow from this heart of the continent. Here, at "the Forks" in Winnipeg, the north-flowing Red River merges with the Assiniboine River from the West. From throughout the continent indigenous peoples have gathered here for thousands of years, trading and holding their ceremonies.

The Festival will take place here, on the Prairie, under the overarching sky, surrounded by vast lakes that mirror it. It is human initiative and this interplay of above and below, of the heavens and nature, that reflect what has been cultivated over this last century and which will lead us into the future.

The site also provides an opportunity to experience how these future oriented intentions have shaped a new living and innovative community attempting to live and work off-the-grid.

An Orientation

The intention of this Festival is to foster the wonder that brings new initiative into humanity. The mysterious arising of initiative springs from the creative interplay between individuals who recognize that they share impulses and imaginations for what can arise. This Festival of Initiative has, as its central purpose, the intention to provide the place and possibilities for this finding of initiative to take place.

*Working Together

The central activity of the Festival is to facilitate the process of bringing together those who seek to share their ongoing work and, in so doing, find new collaborators. To make this possible a number of groups designed to take up this “Working Together” will take place. The following provides an introduction to each of these “Working Together” groups.

Spiritual Agriculture – Section for Agriculture

Exploring the possibilities that humans can be fully at home in nature, contributing actively to ecosystems in which many organisms thrive together.

Harmonizing Human Culture. The Threefold Social Order – Social Science Section
Working with economics as well as North/ South geographical forces. Carried by Sebastian Bilbao.

Metamorphosis, Developing future oriented faculties – The Visual Arts Section
Paragraph and photo

Science and Spiritual Science – The Natural Science Section

Creating Festivals as Ritual – Carried by Emmanuel Vukovich, concert violinist and founder and producer of the Parcival Project.

Seeking a Future Language – Literary Arts and Humanities Section. Carried by Bruce Donehower

Art as the Futures Universal Language – The Sections Through the Arts

Listening

As a continuing activity throughout the Festival, small conversation groups will be established during registration. The intention of these groups is to provide an ongoing activity that can support cultivating and intentional listening to what others bring.
